An Art is the application of knowledge to some practicable end, - to answer some ornamental or useful purpose. The Arts are divided into fine and the useful. If the knowledge be merely accumulative experience, the art is called empirical; but if the knowledge is experience, guided by reason, - based upon general principles, - and brought under their control, it is a scientific art. Veterinary comprehends a knowledge of the external form as well as the internal structure and economy of domestic quadrupeds, the appropriate management of them, and the nature, causes and cure of their diseases. The Veterinary is a Scientific Art in the strictest sense of the term. It invites its votaries to the following studies, viz: - 1st. The different species, and various races of the domestic animals; - their different breeds; - the uses to which each breed is applicable; - the useful crossings of breeds; and the most economical and best methods of producing, rearing and feeding each class and breed. 2nd. The breaking, educating, training and fattening certain domestic animals. 3rd. Commercial jurisprudence,...
